PPROPRIATELY, the two Feature Records in this album were taken from the historical files of the Recording Studios of WOR, one of the great American stations that originally broadcast these historic speeches by Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

Famed in peacetime for outstanding news-coverage, WOR's handling of the entire World War II story has brought praise from many sources. From Pearl Harbor through V-J Day, WOR carried to its millions of listeners all the voices of Victory. On WOR, you heard the inspiring voices of the leaders; the determined voices of fighting men; the on-the-spot roar and surge of battle. On WOR, too, you heard the crisply-spoken communiques and thoughtful analyses that traced the long, bitter way to Berlin and Tokyo.

Of all the material in its files of recorded historical speeches, WOR chose the titanic words on these two records as perhaps the most memorable and significant; the most suitable for a timeless place in your record collection.

Watch for the many new records to come bearing the blue WOR Feature Record label. It is a label that means, not only technical excellence, but good listening.

WOR FEATURE RECORDS

The speeches from which these excerpts were chosen were delivered under many different conditions—indoors, in studios, small rooms, auditoriums, and the Halls of Congress—outdoors, on platforms, in large stadiums, and in restricted areas.

WOR is proud of its engineering staff who overcame the difficulties due to atmospheric conditions, short wave radio transmission of speeches delivered abroad, and differences in acoustical properties, but still retained the essential qualities of these two great orators.
