Cantor Moshe Taubé was born in Cracow, Poland. At the early age of eight he was already absorbing the traditional cantorial melodies with two famous Cracow cantors, Shmuel Kaufman and Yossel Mandelbaum.

After the second World War Cantor Taubé migrated to what was called Palestine. He joined the Jewish underground “Hagana” and later the Israeli Army, taking an active part in the defense of Jerusalem; during the War of Independence and Sinai Campaign. While in the service, Moshe often delighted large audiances with his outstanding renditions. After finishing his military service he studied voice at the Institutes of Music in Haifa and Jerusalem. Cantor Taubé recorded many exclusive performances for the Israel Radio Service during that time.

Three days after his arrival in the U.S.A. in 1957, Cantor Taubé was engaged by Congregation Shaare Zedek of New York, one of America’s oldest and most distinguished congregations. He served as their cantor for eight years, until his engagement by Congregation Beth Sholom of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Cantor Taubé is a graduate of Juilliard School of Music. There, he studied voice culture with Hans J. Heinz, and composition theory with the American composers Norman Lloyd, and Bernard Wagenaar.

Before coming to Pittsburgh, he was a member of the faculty at the Cantors Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary. There, he instructed young cantors in the art of traditional Hazzanuth.

His record of “Original Cantorial Masterpieces” made by RCA, is a great favorite in countless Jewish homes.
